

Essilor and Delfin to create a global integrated player in the eyewear industry with the combination of Essilor and Luxottica

- Combination of two major and complementary global players in the eyewear industry to answer the growing needs in visual health and the appetite for premium branded products
- By bringing together Essilor and Luxottica, the new group would be in an outstanding position to propose a comprehensive offering combining a strong brand portfolio, global distribution capabilities and complementary expertise in ophthalmic lenses, prescription frames and sunglasses
- The new entity, with combined revenue in excess of €15 billion, more than 140,000 employees and sales in over 150 countries, would represent a growth platform ideally positioned to seize future opportunities
- Expected to generate significant synergies
- Delfin irrevocably commits to contribute its shares in Luxottica to Essilor based on an exchange ratio of 0.461 Essilor share for 1 Luxottica share

On this occasion, Hubert Sagnières, Chairman and CEO of Essilor stated: “Our project has one simple motivation: to better respond to the needs of an immense global population in vision correction and vision protection by bringing together two great companies, one dedicated to lenses and the other to frames.

With extraordinary success, Luxottica has built prestigious brands, backed by an industry state-of-the-art supply chain and distribution network. Essilor brings 168 years of innovation and industrial excellence in the design, manufacturing and distribution of ophthalmic and sun lenses. By joining forces today, these two international players can now accelerate their global expansion to the benefit of customers, employees and shareholders as well as the industry as a whole.”

Leonardo Del Vecchio, Chairman of Delfin and Executive Chairman of Luxottica Group added: “With this agreement my dream to create a major global player in the eyewear industry, fully integrated and excellent in all its parts, comes finally true. It was some time now that we knew that this was the right solution but only today are there the right conditions to make it possible. The marriage between two key companies in their sectors will bring great benefits to the market, for employees and mainly for all our consumers. Finally, after fifty years, two products which are naturally complementary, namely frames and lenses, will be designed, manufactured and distributed under the same roof”.

January 16, 2017 – 6.45 a.m CET – Essilor and Delfin today announce the signing of an agreement designed to create an integrated player dedicated to visual health and superior consumer experience through a combination of Essilor [Euronext Paris: EI] and Luxottica Group [MTA: LUX; NYSE: LUX].

Together, Essilor and Luxottica will be in a stronger position to address the vision needs of the 7.2 billion people in the world out of which 2.5 billion people still suffer from uncorrected vision problems.

This transaction would allow the combined group to better seize growth opportunities resulting from strong demand in the eyewear market, driven by the increasing need for corrective and protective eyewear and the appetite for strong brands.

The combination would create a key player, operating across all segments of the eyewear industry. The new entity would leverage state-of-the-art production capabilities and widespread distribution networks to better serve clients and deliver value to all stakeholders.

Together, Luxottica and Essilor would have more than 140,000 employees and sales in more than 150 countries. Based on the companies' 2015 results, the new company would have posted combined net revenues of more than €15 billion and combined net EBITDA of approximately €3.5 billion.

The two groups share common values: their mission is to improve vision across the world with innovation as a growth driver, operational excellence, an entrepreneurial spirit and an international mindset.

Based on a preliminary analysis, the combined group is expected to progressively generate revenue and cost synergies ranging from €400 million to €600 million in the medium term and accelerating over the long term.

It will also benefit from a robust balance sheet and strong cash flow generation, giving it the financial flexibility to invest in its future growth both externally and internally.

Since its creation in 1961, Luxottica has built an outstanding portfolio of proprietary eyewear brands, including Ray-Ban® and Oakley®, and prestigious licensed brands, loved by consumers everywhere. Luxottica operates a well-developed retail and wholesale network in both developed and emerging markets, along with innovative e-commerce platforms, engaging a new generation of digital consumers. State-of-the-art manufacturing footprint makes up the backbone of the company, where the most advanced R&D, equipment, materials and processes are used to make frames that are excellent in quality and style.

Essilor succeeded in bringing innovative solutions to ophthalmic lenses and creating internationally-recognized brands (Varilux®, Crizal®, Transitions®) offering tailored correction solutions for all of its consumers' needs. Leveraging its cutting-edge methods, Essilor also developed new approaches in the sunwear segment and online retail.

Transaction Terms

The transaction would entail a strategic combination of Essilor's and Luxottica's businesses consisting of (i) Delfin contributing its entire stake in Luxottica (approx. 62%) to Essilor in return for newly-issued Essilor shares to be approved by the Essilor shareholders meeting, on the basis of the Exchange Ratio of 0.461 Essilor shares for 1 Luxottica share, and (ii) Essilor subsequently making a mandatory public exchange offer, in accordance with the provisions of Italian Law, to acquire all of the remaining issued and outstanding shares of Luxottica pursuant to the same Exchange Ratio and with a view to delist Luxottica's shares.

Essilor would become a holding company with the new name "EssilorLuxottica" via a hive-down of all of its operating activities into a wholly-owned Company, to be called Essilor International, and the contribution by Delfin of its Luxottica shares.

Following the transaction, Delfin would own between 31% and 38%¹ of the shares of EssilorLuxottica and would be its largest shareholder. The voting rights of any shareholder of EssilorLuxottica would be capped at 31% and there would no longer be double voting rights for the shares.

The transaction is subject to Essilor's Works Councils' information and consultation procedure according to French law.

The Board of Directors of Essilor held on January 15, 2017 unanimously approved the agreement with Delfin, which it considered to be in line with the best interests of shareholders, employees and other stakeholders, and decided to initiate the information and consultation of its works councils on the basis of such proposed transactions.

The Board of Directors of Luxottica, held on the same day, unanimously acknowledged that the transaction is in the best interest of Luxottica and shared the strategic rationale of the business combination.

Leadership, governance and structure of the new entity

Luxottica's Executive Chairman, Leonardo Del Vecchio, would serve as Executive Chairman and CEO of EssilorLuxottica. Essilor Chairman and CEO, Hubert Sagnières, would serve as Executive Vice-Chairman and Deputy CEO of EssilorLuxottica with equal powers as the Chairman and CEO. Leonardo Del Vecchio and Hubert Sagnières would also keep their positions of Executive Chairman of Luxottica and Chairman and CEO of Essilor International, respectively.

The EssilorLuxottica Board of Directors would consist of sixteen members:

- Eight members nominated by Essilor, comprising Hubert Sagnières, two employee representatives, one Valoptec representative and four independent members
- Eight members nominated by Delfin, comprising Leonardo Del Vecchio, three Delfin representatives and four independent members

¹ Depending on the acceptance rate of the exchange offer. 31% assumes 100% acceptance rate of the exchange offer.

Essilor International, after completing the hive-down noted above, and Luxottica would maintain their respective Board of Directors.

An integration committee would be implemented to ensure smooth and successful integration of the two companies.

Next steps

- Launch of Essilor's Works Council's information/consultation process
- Satisfaction of the conditions to the transaction closing, including:
 - AMF's decision to waive Delfin's obligation to file a mandatory tender offer for Essilor's shares
 - Approval of the transaction by Essilor shareholders convened for a general meeting, and by holders of double voting rights convened for a special meeting
 - Clearance from relevant anti-trust authorities
- Closing expected in H2 2017, subject to satisfaction of all conditions, to be followed by EssilorLuxottica's mandatory exchange offer for all remaining issued and outstanding Luxottica shares.
