

Essilor and Michelin unveil a common awareness campaign “Together for safe mobility: Check your vision, check your tires”
 on the occasion of the Movin’On summit

The Michelin Man and Max, Michelin and Essilor’s ambassadors, team up to promote safe mobility

Charenton-le-Pont 4 June 2020 – As Movin’On, the international summit for a safer mobility inspired by Michelin, is being kicked off, Essilor and Michelin jointly launch a global awareness campaign, “Together for safe mobility: Check your vision, check your tires”. For the first time, this campaign will bring together both brand ambassadors, the Michelin Man and Max, urging drivers to check their vision and their tires before getting on the road again. Both groups firmly believe in the power of joint initiatives to ensure a safe mobility. This is particularly critical today, as people progressively get back on the roads again in the context of Covid19.

In the framework of their partnership announced in November 2019, Essilor, the world’s leading ophthalmic optics company, and Michelin, the global tire and sustainable mobility leader, launch their first common initiative: a common global awareness campaign for a safer mobility. This approach aims at raising awareness about the importance of good vision and tires in good condition, as populations progressively get back on the road again.

The campaign will have a global reach and will be deployed progressively in pilot countries where dedicated recommendations will be made available, encouraging the wider public to take action with eye care and tires’ professionals. The campaign will first be released through digital channels with common visuals pushed through the two groups’ social media accounts.

This awareness-raising campaign builds on the recent update of the United Nations’ (UN) recommendations to countries for enhancing national road safety systems. “Ensuring good vision for all road users” is now part of the official recommendations to achieve the UN road safety goals on a global scale. In this regard, Essilor and Michelin, both partners of FIA Action for Road Safety and the UN Road Safety Fund, are proud to work alongside and to collaborate concretely to ensure a safer mobility.

About Movin'On

Essilor and Michelin both participate in Movin'On, the International Summit for Safe and Sustainable Mobility that is transformed this year in "Movin'On Digital Meeting", happening online on 3 & 4 June 2020 (<https://www.movinonconnect.com/>).

The mission of the Movin'On Summit is to move from ambition to actions. Described as the « Davos of Mobility », this event brings together thousands of leaders from academia, politics, business, cities and startups. Together, they collaborate and act to bring sustainable mobility to life. It is made up of multi-disciplinary and multi-sector experts, work all year round as "think-and-do tanks" to promote eco-systemic innovation and to develop concrete solutions for truly sustainable mobility.

Movin'On is working on concrete solutions and innovations to encourage mobility with two main objectives: improve society by implementing mobility multiple and complementary solutions that answer the three criteria of efficiency, ethics and inclusion.

Act for the planet by addressing climate change, air pollution and the scarcity of resources.
